

DIÁLOGO

On Discord, Tony, Galvez, and Cesar join a voice chat while playing together.

Tony: Hello!

Cesar: Hey, Tony! How's your day been?

Tony: It's been good, as usual. I woke up early, around 7 in the morning, and after a quick shower, I headed to school. We're all in the same web application development class, like you and Galvez. I just got back home after an intense Call of Duty session with the guys. (Laughs)

Galvez: Hey, Tony! My day has been quite busy too. I started my day at 7 in the morning, had my usual mix of peanuts, walnuts, a banana, a protein-packed Danone yogurt, some ham, and oats for breakfast. Then, off to school for our web development classes.

Tony: Cesar, how was your day? I know you have a different routine with the train commute and all.

Cesar: Hi, guys. Well, my day was pretty standard. I woke up at 7, had breakfast, and took the train to get to school. On the train, I usually catch up on some reading. It's my little mobile library time.

Tony: And Galvez, how's that gym routine going? It sounds intense.

Galvez: Oh, it's tough but I like it. After getting back from school at 3:30, I had lunch, took a one-hour nap, and hit the gym from 6 to 7:30. Now, I'm back home, watching videos and catching up on some school assignments.

Cesar: Then, I took the train back home, which gives me a great opportunity to review my notes and prepare for the next day. I like to be efficient during those train rides.

Tony: That's a smart way to use your commute, Cesar. I'll have to try that sometime.

Galvez: And Tony, how was that Call of Duty match? Did you win any games?

Tony: We won a few, lost a few, you know how it goes. But it was a blast playing with the gang.

Cesar: When I got home, I had some downtime, so I checked out a new recipe for dinner. Cooking helps me unwind.

Galvez: Sounds like you had fun, Tony. And as for me, after working out, I like to watch some YouTube tutorials on web development. There's always something new to learn.

Tony: Cesar, I remember you were looking for a place in Alacena. Did you find anything interesting today?

Cesar: I did find a couple of options, but I'll need to visit them to decide. The train ride gives me time to browse for places.

Galvez: Cesar, how's your search for accommodations going? Any promising finds?

Cesar: I've come across a few interesting options, but as Tony mentioned, I'll need to visit them in person. The train rides are actually quite useful for researching Alacena's housing market.

Tony: Well, it sounds like we all had pretty productive days in our own ways. I'm going to catch up on some reading myself and get ready for tomorrow's classes.

Galvez: Absolutely, Tony. We all make the most of our time. I'll get back to my web development studies and hit the gym again tomorrow.

Cesar: Thanks for the chat, guys. I've got some cooking to do and a few more accommodation listings to browse. Let's talk again soon.

Tony: Sure thing, Cesar. Have a good evening!

Galvez: Take care, Cesar. Talk to you both later!